COMMUNITIES OF PRACTICE

Support our growing Lean Community for 2024!

Your NOLA Community of Practice continues to grow for the 7th year in a row. By last count we have a database of 640 engaged design and construction professionals.

Learning about Lean practices is not a straight path. It is a continuous effort to enhance your current playbook by honing a variety of collaborative leadership skills while developing useful habits.

Lean approaches beg for broader engagement with your team and other project stakeholders, and so Lean deployment is often undercut by human factors such as varying degrees of enthusiasm, learning styles, egos, turnover, misconceptions of Lean tactics, and lingering apprehension among many stakeholders. Your Community of Practice is your ally in that struggle, your resource for Lean learning and peer-led knowledge-sharing. Join us to see how we build people to build better.
